CHECKLIST OF THINGS TO PACK ON A SKI OR SNOWBOARD HOLIDAY OR VACATION

The following is a check-list of items you may need or want to take on an (overseas) snow holiday or vacation. Obviously everyone's holiday is somewhat different, so everyone will want to pack different items. This is just a guide of all the potential things you might manage to pack into your baggage allowance!

Check your airline's luggage restrictions, as there have been some changes over the past few years such that ski and board equipment is no longer counted separately. Many airlines have an economy class baggage limit of 20-23kg, within which you'll need to pack your ski or board gear. You might need to pack your boots in a separate bag, and hope that they'll be lenient and check them for you. If not, you'll have to take them on as cabin baggage. If you're not flying anywhere, then go for it with your packing!

Ski/board equipment (if not renting)

- skis (fat skis if heading to a great powder destination)
- snowboard
- ski/board boots
- ski poles

Skiing and board accessories
